

I knew you were the one

When you started carrying jelly babies, just in case.

You're all that I need

And my insulin.

And my finger pricker.

And some test strips.

And my hypo treatments.

You make me feel weak at the knees

And not just because my blood sugar is low.

Thank you for being there

Through every up and down, every high and low, and knowing just what to do.
